Position Title: Child Policy Research Assistant

About PCCY

Public Citizens for Children and Youth (PCCY) is a private nonprofit organization dedicated to improving the lives and chances of children within the Philadelphia region through thoughtful and informed advocacy.

Position Summary

PCCY is seeking an individual with strong quantitative skills who can serve as the organization's point person for all things data and research-related. The Research Analyst will produce in-depth research reports and construct data sets on key issues affecting the region's children that PCCY will use to persuade lawmakers and the public to support specific policy and funding measures. Research is largely focused on K-12 education but also includes early childhood care and education, child health, and family financial stability. The position is ideal for someone who wants to use quantitative skills to create real-world systemic change that improves the lives of the region's children.

Responsibilities

- Prepare in-depth research reports on key issues affecting the region's children, including data analysis, data visualization, and writing. Research is largely focused on K-12 education but also includes early childhood care and education, child health, and family financial stability.
- Analyze publicly available administrative data to evaluate policies and construct arguments.
- Create clear Excel-based data sets for internal use.
- Participate in the creation of data-based communications products such as fact sheets and social media graphics to be used in PCCY's advocacy efforts.
- Write op-eds to disseminate research.
- Assist with the organizing of report release events, including press conferences and panel discussions.
- Create and deliver data-driven presentations to policymakers and the public.
- Participate in legislative meetings and assist field staff with other advocacy efforts as needed.
- Compile demographic and other data as needed to support grant applications.
- Assist staff members with other data-related needs that arise.
- Participate in organization-wide outreach efforts and other organization needs that arise.
